

Looking for Romance?

A strong heroine, a dashing hero, a bit of passion and intrigue, and a happy-ever-after ending guaranteed!

ROBYN CARR

The Virgin River novels take place in a remote mountain town, where folks take an interest in other people's business. Reading like a soap opera, each book focuses on a different character in the town, with familiar faces surfacing from story to story. Temptation Ridge makes you want to move there and find love yourself!

LISA KLEYPAS

Lisa Kleypas' free-thinking Hathaway clan is known for not following the rules of British society. This spicy series can be read in any order. Love in the Afternoon, reminiscent of Cyrano de Bergerac, is particularly witty.

STEPHANIE LAURENS

Many of this Australian author's steamy romances are set in the Regency period (England early 1800s). Try Mastered by Love for some smoldering action about the last member of the Bastion Club, an elite society of gentlemen determined to cast their own futures with regards to marriage.

JULIA LONDON

This Austin author's modern romances feature well-developed characters and an easy narrative style. One Season of Sunshine describes the gently unfolding love between an adoptee in search of her birth mother and a widower for whom she is the nanny. London has also written many historical romances.

SUSAN WIGGS

Join the Bellamy family at Willow Lake for the Lakeshore Chronicles. Books can be read in any order, often delving into serious issues and suspense. Try Summer Hideaway for the thrilling tale of Claire Turner, a woman in the witness protection program deciding whether to risk love.
